

Tim Flannery discusses Obama's climate change summit

Tim Flannery, adjunct professor for Environmental and Life Sciences at Macquarie University and chairman of the Copenhagen Climate Council

"...I'm sure that charcoal is one of the obvious ones (climate change mitigation options). ...make charcoal out of it and then store the charcoal, which is almost pure carbon, in the soil."

Whach the video on ABC